

12 Delicious New Experiences in Sonoma

October 28, 2015

While Sonoma's claim to fame is wine, the region's latest crop of farm-to-fork fare—from a drive-thru restaurant from an organic-foods pioneer to a food-centric complex lined with eateries—is just as layered with ingenuity. From the hip, bustling plaza in Healdsburg to tasting rooms on postcard-perfect landscapes across the valley, here are must-stops for every foodie's palate. Whether you crave a juicy Pinot Noir or crisp Chardonnay (just two grapes that thrive here), or a food experience to blow up your social-media feeds, it's all here. There's even a new bakery with serious cred (the France-born pastry chef trained under an El Bulli chef).

By Kristine Hansen

Kathryn MacDonald

MacRostie Winery & Vineyards

In March, MacRostie Winery & Vineyards—a boutique winery putting out amazing Chardonnay and Pinot Noir wines—debuted its glam Estate House. Now, visitors to the winery just outside of Healdsburg in the Russian River Valley can arrive daily (between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; reservations encouraged) and plunk down on the patio of this designer-y home, which overlooks the winery's 13 acres of vineyards, and taste through one of three flights of wine ($15-$25). On chilly days, a sectional sofa and Scandinavian-style dining sets await inside the house.

<http://www.fodors.com/world/north-america/usa/california/napa-and-sonoma/experiences/news/photos/12-delicious-new-experiences-in-sonoma#!2-macrostie-winery-vineyards>